BREED THEATER

"The Violin Maker of Cremona," Dramatic Feature Picture.

and interest is the motion picture at the Breed theater, shown last evening for the first time and entitled The Violin Maker of Cremonn. The ancient surroundings of Cremona and the costumes of the natives of that interesting place are all correctly re-produced. The charming love story woven about the makers of the Cre-mona violins that are so famous is delightful in itself, but the climax is unusual and fascinating that the lence could not refrain from ap-iding loudly at its conclusion. The remainder of the excellent bill shows pienty of dramatic element and some of the funniest films in the mo-tion picture field, among which is ion picture field, among which is he scream, An Obliging Friend.

Mr. Al. H. Ousley, the minstrel tentral from the old favorite, The Song that Reached My Heart, which so elighted the patrons that he was compelled to sing it again, the excelent quality of his very high tenor clee winning much praise for him.

Mr. William E. Stinson, the pleasure young baritone, sang again for Ing young baritone, sang again for the theater, this time singing If I Had a Thousand Lives to Live, in his usual admirable manner.

LINCOLN PARK.

Vaudeville at Rustic Theater:

The third week of Lincoln park and its rustic theater has started in well. Monday's matiness and evening per-formance were liberally patronized. formance were liberally patronized.

Leslie Thurston, the young xylophone artist, is a ready player and Charles O'Toole, who follows, has some good stories and a couple of songs. The blackface work of Garner and Golder is good and Miss Irma Le Pamme sings well and dances gracefully. The leng act, "A Day in a Vaudeville Agency," by Watson, Hutchings and Edwards, contains a number of good laughs, and Mr. Watson is a comical German just over from the old country.

Last night was a model one for dancing and after the show in the theater was out the pavilion got busy and the young folks whirled for more than an hour.

Roderick Theater.

Roderick Theater.

The feature picture at the Roderick for Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday is A Hunter's Grief, a drama, showing how paternal grief will affect a loving father. The leading parts in this drama are taken by Mr. Mosnier and Miss Millade. The father gives his only son a rifle as a birthday present, and next morning sets of duck hunting. The young child follows and hides behind a stack of corn; the father shoots at a duck and avoidentally kills the boy. When he discovers his dead child be becomes insane, and is sent to an asylum. Another boy is born and grows up to be the image of the dead child. The grieving mother brings this child to the insane father, and at the sight of the young child is restored to his sanity. The part of the father is finely portrayed by Mr. Mosnier. An Affair of Henor is a very funny combedy picture, and shows a very humorous duel scene. Aeroplanes shows the development of aerial machines from the beginning of serial navigation to the present day. The Curse of Cocaine shows very clearly what an evil habit can do to a loving wife. William Delaney in "Down in the Deep Let Me Sleep" made a decided hit.

POMONA FIELD DAY. Will Be Held by Invitation at Gilbert Farm, August 11.

Fairfield County Pomona Grange has accepted an invitation from Supt. Cook of Gilbert farm, Georgetown, to hold a field day on that farm, which is connected with the Connecticut Agricultural college, on Wednesday, August 14

Fire Loss at Staffordville-May Due to Cigar Butt or Lighted

The general store of Theodore M. Lyons, in Staffor ville, in which was located the Staffor ville, in which was located the Staffor ville postoffice, was destroyed by fire about 7 o'clock Sunday morning. The house of R. M. Chamberlain, next to the store, was also burned. How the fire originated is not known. The Lyons building was worth about $7,000 and the stock of goods was valued at $10,000. Mrs. Lyons carried only $6,500 insurance on both the building and stock, and is therefore out more than $10,000. Mr. Chamberlin's bouse was insured for $1,200 and is a total loss. There is also some damage to the barn, which was saved by the hard work of the bucket brigade. The fire company from the Springs was called, but went only as far as the Hollow, when they were informed that it was too late for them to be of any help.

informed that it was too include to be of any help.

This is ten second time Mr. Lyons, has been burned out since he went to Staffordville. The old store was struck. by lighting and burned in September, 1996. Mr. Lyons is postmaster, and all of the office fixtures were burned. There was very little mall in the office, as it was most all called for Saturday with fords at $3.50; Frank A. Bill has them in latest styles.

When Sleep Fails, take Horsford's Acid Phosphate. It quiets the nerves, neurishes the body and induces refreshing sleep.

There was a dance there. The theory is advanced that the fire might have started from a lighted cigar butt or cigarette which had been carelessly thrown away.
